THE FIRE HOUSE
WILL BE BUILT.*Judge Van Swearingen This Afternoon Dissolved
Injunction.*MORROW'S STRONG FIGHT*Declared That Borough Still Has $21,000 Leeway After Letting Contract for Fire House Without Exceeding Limit—Higbee in Case.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, August 17.—The injunction against the erection of the fire house in Connellville was dissolved this afternoon at 2 o'clock following arguments of the attorneys. No statement was made by the court except announcement of the order dissolving the injunction. The Connellville Construction Company can now proceed with the erection of the building.

Attorney S. John Morrow, appearing for Borough Solicitor S. Ray Shober, in the injunction proceedings brought against the Borough of Connellville by James H. Yates, George A. Washington, Joseph Deuchner and David Hays, who seek to restrain the borough from erecting the new fire house, presented a strong case at the hearing before Judge Van Swearingen at Uniontown this morning. While sentiment in Connellville had been somewhat pessimistic regarding the outcome of the suit, as far as the borough was concerned, Mr. Morrow handled the case this morning in such a manner that unless the defense presents a remarkably strong case, it is expected, the preliminary injunction will be dissolved.

Attorney E. C. Higbee appeared in the case in the interests of the Connellville Construction Company, which was awarded the contract. Mr. Higbee's questions were generally antagonistic to the borough's claims. This was explained by the fact that the construction company expects to accept certificates of indebtedness in payment for the building and is interested in the validity of those certificates. The construction company is, in a way, placing the borough on trial. Attorney John Duggan, Jr., appeared for the plaintiffs.

Mr. Morrow questioned the only witness, Squire A. O. Bixler, borough clerk, and directed his arguments to show that instead of exceeding the 2 per cent. limit of indebtedness allowed by law, the borough will have a leeway of more than $20,000 after the contract has been awarded. Squire Bixler was the only witness examined. Attorney Morrow began his argument shortly before noon and will be followed by Attorneys Higbee and Duggan.

A. O. Bixler, borough clerk, was put on the stand and kept there all morning. He read from the minutes of Council of the meetings of April 12, when a resolution was passed to accept Architect Andrew P. Cooper's plans; the May 11 meeting showed a resolution to set contractors' estimates. On May 18, and later on July 18, meetings were held in which nothing of importance transpired, as far as the fire house was concerned. On July 21 a meeting was held to act on the bids submitted. The Fayette Lumber Company bid $12,911.06; the Connellville Planning Mill Company bid $12,190; the Connellville Construction Company bid $11,995; and the Keystone Planning Mill Company bid $11,809. The Keystone company's bid was thrown out because no certified check accompanied it, as specified in the advertisement. The Connellville Construction Company was awarded the contract. This company is interested in seeing the contract continued and has E. C. Higbee as the counsel in its behalf.

John Morrow appears for the borough of Connellville instead of S. Ray Shober; John Duggan, Jr., represents the plaintiffs.

The objection to building the structure was started on two points: First, that it would incur an indebtedness amounting to more than two per cent of the property valuation of the borough, necessitates submitted it to a popular vote; second, that the resolutions passed at various meetings by Council do not have the signature of the Burgess.

It was brought out that the valuation of Connellville borough is $4,958,165; that the net indebtedness is $116,000; that $50,000 of this, a sewer bond issue, was authorized by a popular vote. That, subtracted from $116,000 leaves a $66,000 indebtedness authorized by Connellville action alone. Two per cent of the property valuation is $99,000, approximately. The building is to cost $11,995. That, added to the $66,000 makes approximately $77,995. This, taken from $99,000, leaves a leeway of $21,000, and it is contended by the defense that they are well within the limit.

THOUSANDS ARE STARVING;
FOOD SUPPLY SHUT OFF.*Most Critical Situation Has Been Reached at Liverpool in Great Strike—Railroad Unions Strike Tonight.

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, England, Aug. 17.—At 6 o'clock tonight the officials of the Railway Employees' Association telegraphed orders for an immediate strike, to all local union throughout the United Kingdom. At the last moment Premier Asquith warned the labor leaders that the government would not permit complete railway paralysis.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Aug. 17.—More than 1,000 babies and double that number of children of tender years are actually starving to death in Liverpool today, as a result of the shutting off of the city's milk supply. Their parents, unable to relieve their suffering, are beseeching the city and government officials, begging and beseeching food for their children; but nothing can be done to relieve the situation. The supply of food stuffs is already below the danger mark, and adults also will be facing starvation before many hours.

Liverpool is today a beleaguered city. The warship Antrim is guarding the harbor, and upwards of 5,000 troops are encamped in the city streets. Everywhere the threatening guns of the military confront the workmen who have been locked out at the docks and now face starvation.

The Admiralty is rushing more warships to the harbor. The word has been given out that the war vessels are to protect the shipping. There has been no attack on the shipping, and the local authorities cannot even blame the strikers and locked-out workmen for the disorders in the streets.

The electric supply workers went on strike today, and orders have been issued directing the soldiers to go to work in the power and light plants of the city. These plants will be operated by the government until the strikers are replaced.

Plenit at Leningrad.

The annual plenit of the congregation of St. Vincent de Paul's church at Leningrad is today being held in the grove near the church.

Mother and Child
Blown From Bed*United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A mother and her now born babe were literally blown from their bed in the "beehive" section of New York's seething east side early today. The outrage was committed by Italian black handers, and was due to the refusal of a prospective victim to contribute. That both the woman and child were not instantly killed was due entirely to the fact that the bed, in anticipation of the arrival of the storm, had been removed from its original place to the front of the room.

Because of the distasteful nature of the crime, Police Commissioner Waldo and Inspector Hughes took personal charge of the detectives who are trying to find the dynamiters. The woman was Mrs. Jennie Colarusso. Her baby boy was born just 21 hours before the attempt on his and his mother's life. The husband, Antonio Colarusso, is a retired wine merchant. He told the police he had received black hand letters.

Manila Reunion Big Undertaking

Dr. L. P. McCormick, a member of the Society of the Army of the Philippines, is of opinion that while there is much to commend in the movement to hold the reunion next year at Manila, the plan presents many obstacles that are not easily overcome.

"It is a good subject to talk about," commented Dr. McCormick this morning. "I don't know how the plan would work. Even if the government furnished transportation, the meals on the boat going over and back would cost considerable and it would require more time to make the trip than most of the veterans could spare."

"It looks to me that a reunion in Manila would suit two classes, the very rich and the fellows who do not have anything."

There is a healthy post in Manila and a number of veterans who were with the Tenth during the insurrection are located at Manila or other points on the islands.

FOREIGNERS ATTACK WOMEN
ON LONELY DUNBAR ROAD.*Vigorous Use of an Umbrella Beats Them Off After One of Them Had Pinioned Mrs. Trinker's Arms.

Mrs. Louis Trinker of Dunbar had an exciting experience with two foreigners last night along the Furnace road, near that place, and beat them off with two umbrellas she carried. She was accompanied by her two daughters and their screams, accompanied by the blows from the umbrellas, forced the men to flee.

Mrs. Trinker and her daughters were returning from a visit with friends at the Furnace. Near the Millgrim Spring, the darkest part of the road, two foreigners accosted them. One of the men grasped Mrs. Trinker from the rear. She turned and proceeded to beat him over the head with the umbrella. The girls screamed loudly. For a time the foreigners seemed determined to overpower the woman but her resistance proved so fierce that they were glad to abandon their efforts and beat a hasty retreat. There has been much complaint against night prowlers about Dunbar, especially along the lonely Furnace road. Monday night two negroes were detected in an attempt to force an entrance into the home of Hon. J. S. Carroll. They were frightened away by shots fired in their direction by Grant Hays, a neighbor. Tuesday night several suspicious looking negroes attracted some attention but they were closely watched and nothing untoward was reported.

FOREIGN LABORERS
ARE BADLY TREATED.*Twenty-Eight of Them Are Brought Under Arrest
From Indian Creek*AND MULCTED FOR THE COSTS*P. Bufano, F. A. Kall and Attorney
Frad Munson Make Statements
Concerning Action of Contractor
Visconti and Squire W. P. Clark.

Judge R. E. Umbel at a recent session of court stated that the court intended to discipline officers of the law who are guilty of collecting unjust costs in prosecutions before Justice of the Peace. If the statements of P. A. Kall and P. Bufano, as corroborated by Attorney P. D. Munson, are correct, a case from Connellville may soon be brought to his attention. The foreign bankers called at The Courier office this morning and made declarations severely censuring Justice of the Peace W. P. Clark for his action in assessing the costs of prosecution against 28 simple mind Croatian laborers, charged by Contractor R. Visconti with surety of the peace.

Visconti, who had been levied upon for obligations totalling $1,400, was compelled to keep his commissary closed for two days and apparently made no effort to adjust the matter. He claimed that for 10 hours yesterday he was held a prisoner at the camp at Indian Creek, the laborers, he said, preventing him from going to Uniontown to adjust the claim against him and reopening the commissary. He telephoned to Uniontown and Deputy Sheriff Jesse Berg went to Indian Creek to see what the difficulty was. There was no show of resistance when Berg escorted Visconti to the train and brought him to Connellville, where information was made charging the 28 laborers with surety of the peace.

Deputy Sheriff Berg and Constables Russell Stillwagon and Barthold Rotter served the warrants and brought the men to town between 5 and 6 o'clock last evening. The prisoners offered no resistance. Constable Rotter hunted up F. A. Kall, the foreign banker, who went to the men's rescue and secured counsel. Attorney P. D. Munson went to their defense. Regarding the hearing, the bankers made this statement today:

"It was shown by Visconti's own testimony that he could not understand the Croatian language and on the stand he admitted he did not know what the men were saying to them. One man went to Visconti's house and asked for food. He told him the commissary had been closed, the men were without money, and demanded something to eat. Perhaps the man asked a little food, but he was pleading against threatened starvation. The men would not have been paid their July wages until August 26 and the August pay would not be due until September 25. They were without money and their only means of livelihood was through the commissary, which was closed.

"The men did not keep Visconti a prisoner. He was in and out of his house all the time during the two days the commissary was closed. He seemed to be making no effort to adjust his financial troubles. It is not surprising the men were indignant, but they offered no violence, whatever.

"On the witness stand Visconti admitted he did not know what the Croatians were saying to him as he does not understand their language. He could not even say they were making threats. Yet despite this testimony, Squire Clark made these unfortunate laborers pay the costs, which totalled over $58. These Croatians are simple persons, they are peaceful men, and they had no idea of harming their employer.

"This is the second time Visconti has had trouble with his men. They have a hard time getting their pay from him and some of them have been forced to take legal action against him to recover money due them. Some weeks ago he had more than 30 men brought to Connellville on a surety of the peace charge and they, too, were forced to pay the costs."

The resentment against the treatment accorded the laborers does not include the constables, who only performed their duties in serving the warrants. The bankers and Attorney Munson declare, however, that under the evidence introduced there was no justification for assessing the defendants with the costs. The costs were paid under protest and it is understood Attorney Munson will take an appeal.

Squire Clark's own costs in the cases amounted to $20.40. He deducted this from the $58 and the balance was split among the constables.

Former Greene County Minister Is Killed by Volcano in Japan.

A dispatch from Tokyo, Japan, reporting the disastrous eruption of the Asama-Yama volcano, on the island of Honshu, Japan, names the Rev. John Hall as among the killed.

It is believed that this Rev. John Hall is the son of Rev. J. H. Hall, a missionary of the Presbyterian church at Tonabe, Japan, and a nephew of Rev. J. E. Hall, at Tenoise, Japan.

Rev. John Hall was aged about 35 years, and has been doing missionary work in Japan for several years, since his graduation from the Lebanon Theological Seminary, Tennessee.

Rev. John Hall was graduated at the Missouri Valley college.

His first charge after graduating from the theological seminary was the Muddy Creek Cumberland Presbyterian church, Greene county, now the Muddy Creek Presbyterian church. While pastor of that church he did good work and became especially active in missions. M. H. Biddle, now deceased, of Carmichael, an active church man and supporter of mission work, became interested in the young man and provided for his support as a missionary in Japan. He at once left for his work in the foreign field, and has been successful since being there.

About three years ago he was in this country on a furlough, visiting here and in Greene county. Mrs. Hall was a Miss Weyhoffer of Greene county. They have two children.

Rev. J. H. Hall, the father of Rev. John Hall, and Rev. J. E. Hall, the uncle, are Waynesburg college graduates, and have been in the Japan mission field for a number of years. Rev. John Hall spent his early life with his parents in Japan, and came back to this country to be educated.

It will be deeply regretted by his many friends hereabouts if the report of his death is found to be correct.

Mrs. Parcell, wife of Rev. S. L. Parcell, of the Broad Street Baptist church, in a relative of John Hall by marriage. Rev. Arthur Hall, pastor of a church in the Pittsburg section, is a cousin of John Hall. The dispatch from Tokyo is as follows:

TOKIO, Japan, August 16.—Asama-Yama, the volcano on the island of Honshu, was in eruption yesterday. A large party of foreigners who were stopping at Kraitawana Shin, a popular resort nearby ascended the mountain during the night and escaped the fumes from the crater. Two or three of the party were injured by falling stones. Several Japanese students are missing and it is feared that they were in the vicinity when the eruption occurred. The volcano has been active for three months.

One of the Americans later succumbed to the injuries. At first he was Rev. John Hall, Presbyterian missionary. Two Japanese also have died from injuries sustained in the eruption.

The board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States has a missionary at Ku Wakayama and Tenabe, Japan, the Rev. J. H. Hall, and at Tenoise, the Rev. J. E. Hall.

Scorns clothes.

Monesylable Marvel Has Gone Nude For Sixty-one Years.

A strange man named John Castellow has grown to be sixty-one years of age, hale, hearty and happy, without ever wearing a stitch of clothing and without ever using a single word but the monesylable "Gee."

He lives four miles east of Windsor, in Hertford county, N. C., and his health is perfect, not having missed a meal in fifty years. His body is normal and well shaped, but his strength is prodigious. He can break a double plow line as easily as if it were a cotton cord. He is gentle and has never been known to hurt a living soul intentionally. He cannot speak a word except the one monesylable "Gee," which he uses in various intonations to express all his desires and emotions.

At Sea on Land.

A clergyman who had neglected all knowledge of nautical affairs was asked to deliver an address before an audience of sailors. He was discoursing on the stormy passages of life. Thinking he could make his remarks more pertinent to his hearers by metaphorically using sea expressions, he said:

"Now, friends, you know that when you are at sea in a storm the thing you do is anchor."

A half concealed snicker spread over the room, and the clergyman knew that he had made a mistake.

After the services one of his listeners came to him and said, "Mr. —, have you ever been at sea?"

The minister replied:

"No, unless it was while I was delivering that address."

THE ARTIST'S IDOL.

She Didn't Know Anything About Music! She Only Loved It.

The incident happened upon one of the great ocean liners during an autumn trip when a famous violinist was among the passengers. As first he firmly refused to play, but was finally persuaded, and upon the appointed evening the salon was crowded with eager passengers.

It was a most enthusiastic audience, intelligent, sympathetic and appreciative, yet as the evening wore on people began to notice that the violinist's glance went always in one direction, and after a time others followed it.

They saw a plain little woman, plainly dressed, with no marks of wealth or culture. But she was looking at the master with shining eyes, her face wet with tears, unmindful of everything except the magic of his violin. When the program was ended, pushing his way through the people who would have detained him, the musician went straight to the little shabby figure.

"Madame, I congratulate you—you are so great an artist!" he cried.

She looked up at him almost in alarm.

"I—oh—I cannot play a note," she stammered. "I don't know anything about music. I only—love it."

The violinist shook his big shaggy head impatiently.

"Is it not what I say? You have so ardent soul—ze artist to listen. What goes to play to so dead like to rest?"

With a disparaging gesture toward the crowded room, "It is to so one who so heart to listen set we masters play."

Build Republic for Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, August 17.—Although there may yet be some minor changes made in the constitution already drafted by the assembly recently elected to establish the present Portuguese republic upon a regular basis, it seems certain that in its final essentials, the fundamental law will stand as now outlined.

The plan is to place practically the whole of the governmental power in the hands of a national legislature of two chambers, the lower one popularly elected and the upper chosen by the country's various municipal councils and other similar corporations. Both the President and the members of the cabinet will be chosen by a term of four years and the cabinet members for as long as they are able to maintain a majority in the two chambers. The cabinet will, while it remains in office, exercise executive authority but the President's powers will be considerably more limited than in the United States or even than in France.

Who will be elected President is as yet decidedly uncertain but the present provisional executive, Dr. Theophilo Braga, seems unlikely to be a candidate. Those whose names are most frequently mentioned for the office are: Dr. Bernardino Machado, present minister of foreign affairs; Dr. Alfonso Costa, present minister of justice; Dr. Manoel Azevedo, a prominent lawyer, and Dr. Sebastiao Magalhães Lima, former minister in France, a leading journalist and one of the earliest and most influential advocates for the substitution of a republic for monarchy.

Though the heads of the provisional government maintained from the first that it would probably be a long time before the burden of taxation upon the people could be materially lightened, considerable progress has nevertheless been made in the direction of relieving the appalling poverty of the masses. The most important of these steps took the form of a correction of the system of paying rents, which were formerly collected six months in advance in addition to which the government levied a tax upon the tenants in proportion to the amount or rent paid. By a decree of the provisional government, collection can now be enforced only a single month in advance and tenants paying no more than $10 monthly are not taxed at all.

By way of lessening the amount of illiteracy—nearly three-fourths of the population being at present unable to read—the provisional government has also been opening free schools all over the country.

Portuguese Fear Secret Society

BADAJOS, Portugal, August 17.—More people have fled from Portugal within the last few days than in all the time since the monarchy was overthrown and the present republic established there. The flights are due to fear of the Carbonarios, the secret society which engineered the revolution and is still politically supreme throughout Portugal. Angered by recent activity on the monarchists' part, the members of this organization have recently been perpetrating a series of the most brutal outrages upon large numbers of people either known to be or suspected of being monarchist sympathizers. In some cases have been snatched and assassinated have been frequent occurrences.

The refugees are mostly people of wealth and position and the amount of money they are smuggling out of the country with them is so large as to threaten serious national financial embarrassment.

MONTREAL, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened his Quebec campaign today at Trois Rivières, where he addressed a great demonstration of Liberals. The Premier attaches much importance to the campaign in this Province, owing to the wide prevalence here of the National sentiment, which is regarded as one of the most disturbing elements with which the Liberals have to cope in the present fight.

By way of lessening the amount of illiteracy—nearly three-fourths of the population being at present unable to read—the provisional government has also been opening free schools all over the country.

Portuguese Fear Secret Society

BADAJOS, Portugal, August 17.—More people have fled from Portugal within the last few days than in all the time since the monarchy was overthrown and the present republic established there. The flights are due to fear of the Carbonarios, the secret society which engineered the revolution and is still politically supreme throughout Portugal. Angered by recent activity on the monarchists' part, the members of this organization have recently been perpetrating a series of the most brutal outrages upon large numbers of people either known to be or suspected of being monarchist sympathizers. In some cases have been snatched and assassinated have been frequent occurrences.

The refugees are mostly people of wealth and position and the amount of money they are smuggling out of the country with them is so large as to threaten serious national financial embarrassment.

Laurier in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened his Quebec campaign today at Trois Rivières, where he addressed a great demonstration of Liberals. The Premier attaches much importance to the campaign in this Province, owing to the wide prevalence here of the National sentiment, which is regarded as one of the most disturbing elements with which the Liberals have to cope in the present fight.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUG. 17, 1911.

THE COMMENDABLE DIPLOMACY OF A FACTIONAL ORGAN.

The Uniontown Herald is evidently a firm believer in the adage, "If you blow not your horn the same shall not be blown." It is achieving the proud reputation of being the Boss Blower of Uniontown, being bluffed as an art has attained to attitudes not attempted outside of New York and John W. Gates. We read with interest this editorial utterance of our esteemed contemporary:

A glance at the columns of this page devoted to political announcements shows its enlargement from day to day. This is due to the fact that the Herald has taken the liberty of taking to Uniontown, and that it is not only in the most influential newspaper in the county, but it is also the most influential newspaper in the county. It is the only paper of the exact number of copies it prints for distribution. Other papers put forth some extravagant claims, but no figures. Advertising rates on application.

It will be well, however, to watch this column on this page which contains the cards of those who are in the race. By doing so the voters will be able to keep themselves informed. There are some candidates who need no introduction to the voters. There are others who may not be so well known, but who are candidates. The one who will use the newspaper to the best advantage is the one who will use the newspaper to the best advantage.

The statement that The Herald has "the largest circulation" and "politically it is the most influential newspaper" remains to be proven. The Herald claims its circulation is "water," the political announcements in its columns, because by doing so they will be "enabled to keep themselves informed." No doubt, no doubt; and officially informed, too.

The Courier does not intend to take any part in the nomination at the primaries of the Republican county ticket. It expects to give the nominees its cordial and earnest support. It will not lend its influence directly or indirectly for or against any primary candidate, because it is not the property of any political faction. In all sincerity and kindness we would say that factional organs would serve the interests of their ownership more faithfully and effectively if they would curb their propensity for butting into the primaries.

Three years ago The Herald announced a slate and bade Republicans to bow down before it. The Republicans didn't bow; they kicked, and the slate was smashed to smithereens. The experience has taught the ambitious but unwise trumpeter of primary battles some measure of humility, but not all of it. The Herald now knows that brutal hostilities will not win with the Republicans of Fayette county, so it attempts the same results by more diplomatic methods. It naively declares that "it may be well, however, to watch the column on this page which contains the cards of those who are in the race."

THE FOREIGNER, GUILTY AND INNOCENT.
The arrest and trial of a score or more foreign laborers for alleged surety of the peace is severely scored by two prominent foreign bankers of the city. We give their statements without prejudice. The justice who imposed the fines is an officer of reputation and character. He is presumed to have acted in good faith. So far as he is concerned, it is not possible that injustice should have been deliberately done.

The circumstance, however, indicates quite clearly that our local administrators of justice should exercise great care to prevent the foreign population from being imposed upon by designing people. As a rule the foreigners are peaceful and industrious people. We need them here. We should be willing and anxious at all times to protect them in their rights, just as we should inexorably punish them for their crimes and misdemeanors.

Some constables and justices of Fayette county have in times past conspired to make unlettered foreigners of their hard earnings, under pretense of the fact that the fact is notorious that the court has taken official notice of it.
On the other hand, some vicious and reprehensible foreigners are treated with entirely too much consideration. The degenerate assassin who tried to slay Conneltsville Brant has been allowed to go free on a $5000 bail bond. Such men are a menace to any community. What is $5000 compared with the safety of the men and women and children of Conneltsville or any other community to which this degenerate may flee to escape the just judgment of the law?

CAPT. JOHN SMITH.

By Isaac of Yukon.

Many things can be said about Captain John Smith that are not in the school histories. Although teachers and authors have been trying to keep it mighty quiet for the past forty years, the fact is that the story of his life is a most interesting one. It is a story of a man who was a leader of men, a man of great courage and great ability. It is a story of a man who was a leader of men, a man of great courage and great ability.

As soon as the little colony of gold hunters had gone to light upon the banks of the river, Captain Newport returned to England to help make out the political situation for the fall election. He was appointed president and Geo. Wash. Kendall was given the secretaryship. Those two men began to work at once to plan the attack and to make the most of the situation. They were to make the most of the situation. They were to make the most of the situation.

These three men threw Newport down the court house steps so hard that his head cracked. Newport looked upon the scene with a look of surprise. He was not used to being treated in this manner. He was not used to being treated in this manner. He was not used to being treated in this manner.

Smith's profanity sounded like new beginning's poetry. For this reason, it has been kept out of the newspapers. Smith was a new thing in the world. He was a new thing in the world. He was a new thing in the world. He was a new thing in the world. He was a new thing in the world.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Apparently there is no limit to the range of the big game of government. Uncle Sam's army and coast defenses. A few years ago a gun which could shoot accurately a distance of ten miles was considered remarkable, but the latest acquisition to Uncle Sam's armament will demolish any battleship or fortification now in existence at a distance of fifteen miles. When it is considered that during the civil war, only fifty years ago, two miles was the greatest range possible with the guns in use at that time, the range of the new 14-inch death destroyers seems phenomenal.

These new guns will be mounted on the largest of the new battleships, the Texas and the New York, both of which are of the Delaware type and it is claimed that the perfection of these guns will make these two ships the most powerful and most to be dreaded in the world. The new gun is 14 feet, 6 1/2 inches long and weighs, stripped, 44,000 tons. The new diameter of the barrel is 47 inches and at the muzzle 24 inches. It weighs 127,170, and the carriage upon which it is mounted will add $50,000 to this price.

The muzzle of the gun has a velocity of 2,000 feet a second and the power behind the projectile will drive the latter at the rate of eight miles in 25 seconds. The projectile itself is 12 inches in diameter and is 12 inches in length and weighs 1,400 pounds. It is loaded with 140 pounds of gunpowder. The "dunnite," the most powerful explosive known. The powder charge used behind the projectile is 140 pounds of gunpowder. The projectile is 12 inches in diameter and is 12 inches in length and weighs 1,400 pounds. It is loaded with 140 pounds of gunpowder.

The Postoffice Department has just discovered what it claims is one of the greatest schemes for obtaining other people's hard earned money, formulated in years. The Department has been watching the development of the plan for some time and the recent number one complete from the Department of the originator of the scheme has had the effect of forcing the issuance of a fraud order against the company concerned and the individual who is the proprietor of the two offending organizations.

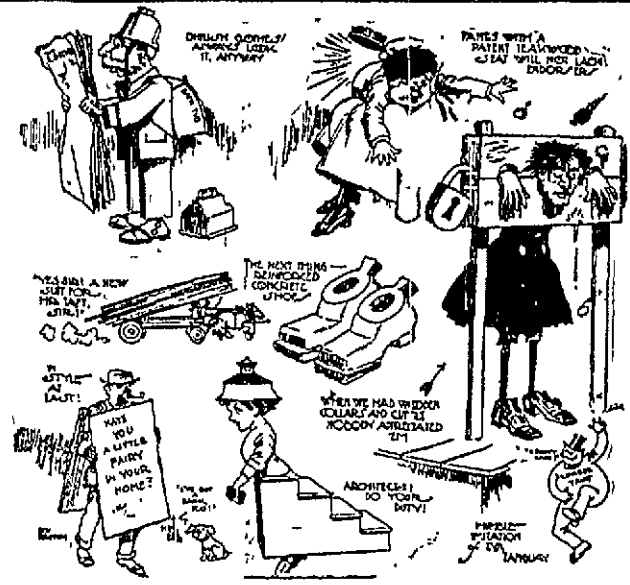

According to the statements of the Postoffice detective in charge of the investigation, the ingenious originator of the scheme had the following advertisement inserted in daily papers throughout the country: "Young men wanted to copy letters at home by night. Send 10 cents as evidence of good faith. Those who were desirous of increasing their weekly stipend by the addition of $15 or more for the amount specified varied in their replies. The advertisement was a letter saying that the company was anxious to get letters, to be used as testimonials, written on a special typewriter which was placed on the market. On the first night of the advertisement, 12,000 letters were sent. The Postoffice detective claims can be bought in retail for 10 cents and used as testimonials. It is possible to write 100 letters, much less than the 1,000 for which the company was willing to pay $15.

The originator of the plan is alleged to have admitted that he bought the typewriter for less than a dollar and that he sold over a hundred of them in a few months through this advertisement.

Experiments are now under way along the Pennsylvania coast with which cement is being blown upon rock surface. The rock sides of California are crumbling. It is found, and to make them from further deterioration, a coating of cement is being applied. The coating, which is about an inch thick, is expected to prevent further crumbling. The concrete is blown with such force by the cement gun that it is believed it will become practically rock. The rock is blown with such force by the cement gun that it is believed it will become practically rock.

It is operated by compressed air and sand and cement are blown from a nozzle with great force. At the nozzle, water is mixed with the sand and cement, so by the time that the ingredients reach the rock surface against which they are directed, they form a well-mixed concrete mixture.

Representative Reilly, of Meriden Conn., has introduced in the House a bill making it a crime to obstruct the limit of time which any watchman in a government building shall work continuously. At present the watchmen, of whom there are hundreds in Washington alone, go to work early in the evening and may on duty until the opening of the morning. The bill would require twelve to fourteen hours in the average working time of many. Rep. Reilly declares.

You Get the Odd Change

The new, Regal, "square-deal" method of pricing shoes at COST PLUS FIVE PER CENT. gives the buyer the benefit of many "odd change" prices.

For example, if the manufacturing cost of any pair of Regal Shoes, with 5% profit and selling expense added, comes to $3.85, you get that shoe at $3.85—not at the old, traditional, $4.00 price.

The Regal Company has abandoned the old-fashioned idea that good shoes always must be sold at "even money" prices.

Regals give the purchaser exactly what he wants at the smallest profit and lowest price at which shoes of that style and quality can be sold.

Prices range from $3.35 to $5.85 and are stamped on the shoes at the factory.

NEWS OF A DAY IN SCOTSDALE.

Grangers and Their Friends
Interested in Picnic
Next Saturday.

GOOD PROGRAM IS ARRANGED

Ex-Professional and College Ball
Players Coming Out to Scottdale,
Saturday—East Huntingdon Township Republicans to Meet.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 17.—Much interest is being manifested by the farmers and their friends in the fourth annual picnic of the Grange, No. 1011, of Scottdale, which will be held in Kester's woods, just back of the worth park on Saturday. West Penn cars may be used to reach Fourth avenue, the place for all those coming over the car lines to get off to most easily reach the picnic grounds. There will be the regular basket picnic and there will also be refreshment stands on the ground. An excellent program of speaking, recitation and music has been arranged to open at 10 o'clock. There will be singing by the Grange followed by the address of welcome by N. R. Lynde. The response will be by A. L. Porter, editor of the Independent, and there will be more music by the Grange. The dinner will then be served and after dinner the program will be resumed, opening with a song by the Grange. "The Farmer as a Citizen" will be the subject of an address by Hon. E. E. Robbins of Greensburg. Then there will be a duet by Misses Ora and Marie Detweiler, and a recitation by Miss Mary Felger. "Benefits of the Grange" will be the topic discussed by Rev. H. G. Torgerson, State Chaplain of the Grange, to be followed by a song by Miss Mary Detweiler. "Keeping the Boy on the Farm," which is always a puzzling problem, will be treated of by Rev. W. J. Mule, pastor of the Reformed church of Scottdale, and this will be followed by a recitation by Miss Marie Detweiler. "The Food Problem" will then be discussed by M. N. Clark of Claridge, a veteran granger. The program will close with music by the Grange. All friends are invited to be present at this picnic, which promises to surpass any previous picnic held by the Grange.

Big Ball Game.

A great baseball game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at the car shore grounds when the Wabash A. C. team will come out from Pittsburg to meet the Car Shore team. This team is claimed to be the best amateur team in the city and it is going to be the exhibition of ball playing as the team is composed of employees of the Wabash station, ex-professional and college players. The game will start at 3:30 sharp.

Setting Curbing.

The work of setting curb on Grant avenue is going steadily forward this week, and a much finer quality of curb is being set than was originally meant. There was a large amount of the curb that was refused by Connell as it had none of the specifications for the curbing. Grading has been resumed on South Chestnut street several inches more of ground being taken off. The people expect that every endeavor shall be made to have South Chestnut street paved early. When the fall rains come and hundreds of trips daily are made to and from school the situation will be worse than ever. The mud will be sufficient to ruin the school buildings and the pupils' clothing, as the mud in that section will be very sticky and plentiful.

Appendicitis Operation.

Gerald, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dull of near town, was taken to the Mt. Pleasant hospital in Albert Kester's auto yesterday afternoon and operated on for a severe attack of appendicitis.

Visiting in Town.

Rev. Melvin A. Dandorf, a preacher in the Denmark church, and a prominent citizen of the vicinity of Jones Mills, was in town yesterday as the guest of W. F. Stauffer. Mr. Dandorf says that the annual Denmark Love Feast at County Line will be held on October 7, beginning at 1 o'clock.

Republican Meeting.

The Republicans of East Huntingdon township have been called to assemble in a suggestion meeting at the Alverton school house next Monday evening at 7:30. The occasion of the meeting is to talk over the political situation and suggest some persons to stand as candidates for office in the township. What is done at that meeting will not be binding of course or prevent anyone entering the field that wants to under the present system of getting their names on the ballot by means of petition—if they don't wait too long.

Mrs. John Ridgeway.

Mrs. Ridgeway, wife of John Ridgeway, a well known P. R. R. engineer, died suddenly in Mercy hospital where she had been operated on a week before yesterday. Mrs. Ridgeway was getting along nicely and so continued till shortly before her death, which followed a sudden change for the worse. Mrs. Ridgeway is survived by her husband and two children. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schriber, well known people of the Creek hills. The funeral will be held some time tomorrow, the hour not decided on this morning.

"Beverly of Graustark."

A beautiful romantic drama at the Solson theatre, Conneltsville, matinee and night, Saturday, August 19. Seat sale opens today at the theatre. Both phones. Matinee prices 25 and 50 cents.

OWENSDALE.

Special to The Courier.
OWENSDALE, Aug. 17.—History does not give us any information as to how the Summit Summers came into existence but the fair devotees of the National game discovered them and also discovered their sham artist for a sufficient number of runs to almost copy a game from them. When Old Horace hung up the curtain the final score was 30 to 25 with two ladies on the losing side. Dark clouds put an end to the bright hopes of the ladies who were clouting and pushing runs across the plate in such a manner that it would have inspired Jim Knicker to let Isaacs of Yukon delve back into history and tell how the dames of the stone age bent the Rock of Gibraltar.

There was an excellent attendance at the United Brethren church last evening despite the inclement weather. Rev. J. S. Hayes of the Emerson United Brethren church occupied the pulpit and gave a very interesting sermon, pouring a verbal broadside into the church of today on the declining good old fashioned fellowship and the "slippery elm" handshake taking place of the hearty welcome grasp of our fathers. Rev. Hayes recently returned from San Francisco where he attended the National Sunday School convention.

Rev. W. H. Spangler, a former pastor of this church, will preach Thursday and Friday and Rev. S. W. Kester will occupy the pulpit Saturday evening.

Mrs. Hough of Jacobs Creek, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Hepler.

Miss Catherine Cunningham of Kingsley, Scottdale, was visiting at the home of Mrs. Robert Cowan yesterday afternoon.

Edward Warden of Greensburg, was attending to matters of business here for a short time yesterday.

Miss Catherine Cowan has returned home after several weeks visit to relatives at Uniontown.

Miss Belle Huff of Hecla, is visiting her parents here.

Meat is Only for the Rich

VIENNA, August 17.—As a result of the government's recent prohibition, under pressure from the Austrians and Hungarian agrarian parties, of further meat importations from Argentina, meat prices are rapidly rising. Prices of all other necessities of life having already been much higher than ever before in the country's history and wages just now rather low than usual, the condition of the masses is becoming positively desperate.

Meat, in fact, is a luxury today which only the rich can afford. In the meadows outside Vienna are encamped a whole army of city workmen and their families, who cannot pay the excessive rents for even the humblest roofs to cover them. Many families, too, are being broken up, through parents' necessity to abandon their children whom they cannot support, to the care of more prosperous relatives, friends, or to the state. The recent enormous increase in the number of suicides among people of the working class is also causing much alarm.

The situation is generally attributed to the government's encouragement of monopolies, but there seems no sign of any change in its policy.

After Judge Who Advises Tipple

United Press Telegram.
BIRMINGHAM, England, Aug. 17.—Judge Sir Thomas Buxton, of the High Court of Justice in hot water on account of his views upon the drink question. Temperance societies all over Great Britain are adopting resolutions of disapproval of his attitude, sending him letters of protest and dispatching delegations to urge him to change his opinions, or at any rate, not to air them in public.

The commotion is the result of what the judge said in pronouncing a sentence to six months' hard labor upon John Bennett, at the Birmingham Assizes recently, for shooting and slightly wounding his wife in a fit of drunkenness. Having imposed the penalty, Sir Thomas took occasion to deliver a little homily upon the virtues of temperance.

"I do not ask you to take the pledge," he told Bennett, "because that which is done in haste is not always successful. But I do appeal to you to pull yourself together and be a man. I advise you to have a glass of beer occasionally, because if you work hard it does you good, but stop when you have had enough."

The first half of the last sentence is what did Judge Buxton's business with the temperance people.

CONGRESSMAN
WHO WILL HEAD
INDUSTRIAL PROBE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—It has become known here that Martin W. Littleton, Congressman from Nassau county, N. Y., will be chairman of the proposed Congressional committee which will be authorized to investigate the industrial conditions of the United States. This committee will, it is reported here, be the most important one appointed by Congress in recent years.

London Mayors
Peevish at King

United Press Telegram.
LONDON, August 17.—London is divided into 25 different boroughs, each of which, so far as governmental organization is concerned, is really a city by itself, and at the head of each one is a mayor. These mayors are very angry in deed at King George. The reason is that he knighted none of them during the recent coronation ceremonies, whereas the mayors of the various provinces, cities he has visited since coronation day have received a knighted accolade.

To make matters worse, it transpires that a representative list of the London mayors was actually on the original "coronation honor list" and someone—the mayors have not yet been able to find out just who it was—has been the King himself—disappointed it. And the explanation given out from the Lord Chamberlain's office does not help things, either. A provincial mayor, it is pointed out, is really a mayor. But the mayor of a London borough, though called a mayor, is in fact only the chairman of a ward council.

The London mayors have held a couple of meetings to consider the way they have been treated. It was finally decided that it would make their ridiculous to voice a formal protest, but they are boiling mad, for all that.

Rampolla May Succeed Pius X

United Press Telegram.
ROME, Aug. 17.—Cardinal Rampolla, who is looked upon generally as the most prominent candidate for the Holy See in the event of the death of Pius X, reached his fifty-eighth birthday anniversary today. The sentiment favorable to the Rampolla candidacy is not wholly personal to the famous cardinal, but is in part due to a feeling that circumstances on the political side of the Vatican interest demand at this time a pontiff of Rampolla's experience and abilities.

Cardinal Rampolla is an Italian by birth and education. He was proclaimed cardinal in 1887 and a few months later was named Secretary of State, in which important position he soon established his reputation as one of the leading diplomats of the world. He has lived a retired life since the death of his former chief, Pope Leo XIII, being head priest of St. Peter's.

Plan Statue of Jefferson Davis.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—The Jefferson Davis Home Association is planning the erection of a statue of the former President of the Confederate States on an eminence in Todd county, overlooking the park which now marks the site of the Davis farm. It is expected that the next Kentucky legislature will be asked to make an appropriation for the purpose.

433 MEMBERS IN NEXT HOUSE.

Effect of Reapportionment
Bill Passed by Congress.

HOW DIFFERENT STATES GAIN

When Arizona and New Mexico Are Admitted Membership Will Be Increased to 435—Effect on National Conventions and Electoral College.

The bill passed by congress authorizing a reapportionment by the state of congress districts on the basis of population as disclosed by the last census increases the membership of the house from 391, as at present, to 433, with two added when New Mexico and Arizona become states.

Efforts in the senate to keep the membership down failed. Senator Root offered an amendment to keep the membership at 391. It commanded only twenty-three votes. Then Senator McCumber offered to make the number 406, but this also failed.

Under the new law the members of the next house will be apportioned among the states as follows:

No.	Gains
Alabama	1
Arkansas	1
California	1
Colorado	1
Connecticut	1
Delaware	1
Florida	1
Georgia	1
Idaho	1
Illinois	2
Indiana	1
Iowa	1
Kansas	1
Kentucky	1
Louisiana	1
Maine	1
Maryland	1
Massachusetts	1
Michigan	1
Minnesota	1

New Jersey	1

North Carolina	1
North Dakota	1

Rhode Island	1
South Carolina	1
South Dakota	1
Tennessee	1
Texas	1
Utah	1
Vermont	1
Virginia	1
Washington	1
West Virginia	1
Wisconsin	1
Wyoming	1
Totals	433

The law will also take effect next year in the makeup of the national conventions and in the membership of the electoral college. It will make the membership of each national convention, exclusive of the territories, 1,002 each, provided Arizona and New Mexico are states at that time, a majority of which, 502, will be sufficient to dominate the Republican convention, and two-thirds of which, 708, in the Democratic convention, will nominate candidates. These figures will be increased slightly by the allotment of delegates given to the territories. The electoral college, however, if the new states are admitted, will have 531 members, making 295 necessary for a choice.

CARNEGIE PENSIONS TOTH.

Innocent Man Who Was Twenty Years
In Prison Gets $40 a Month.

Andrew Carnegie has placed upon his private pension list Andy Toth, who was released from the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, on March 15 after having served twenty years of a life sentence, having been wrongfully convicted of participation in the killing of a watchman at the Edgar Thomson Steel works, Braddock, Pa., on New Year's eve, 1890.

Mr. Carnegie became interested in Toth and asked F. M. Wilmet of the Carnegie hero fund commission to look into the matter.

Mr. Wilmet made an investigation and found that Toth had been one of the rioters on the night in question, but that he had been convicted on very slender evidence.

Mr. Carnegie when he left for Europe to May instructed Mr. Wilmet, if neither the state nor county gave aid to Toth and he would go back to Hungary and join his wife, to arrange to have him placed on his private pension list at $40 a month.

Couldn't Get House; Living in a Tent

Special to The Courier

SMITHFIELD, Aug. 17.—H. F. Bengel of Connellsville, one of the engineers sent here to pull the freight off the Monongahela railroad for shipment over the B. & O. via Smithfield, and his wife are boarding themselves and living in a tent. They have their tent pitched in an ideal place on the banks of Georges creek, under the spreading branches of a majestic oak. It was not altogether from choice that Mr. and Mrs. Bengel went into camp. They could not procure a house nor board and lodging anywhere convenient to Mr. Bengel's work, but since necessity compelled them to camp they are enjoying it hugely.

Bengel does not get in off his run until 11 or 12 o'clock at night and under such circumstances most women would be timid about staying alone, but not so with Mrs. Bengel. When asked about this by a neighbor, she said she had a good gun and knew how to use it, and if at any time in the night they heard shooting up there to come for they might know there was trouble for somebody.

She has had no cause for alarm but one night since she has occupied the tent. At this particular time she had retired, soon after she heard something as though some one was parading the flaps of the tent. Just as Mrs. Bengel got her gun ready for action, she discovered the white face and long horns of a cow thrust through the tent. The cow was one of Dr. Messmore's which he had in pasture in the same field in which the tent is pitched.

Mars and Saturn in Conjunction Sight for Star Gazers Last Night.

With the sky in a perfect condition for star gazing people who were up late last night and early this morning, witnessed with the naked eye one of the prettiest and clearest sights of the actions of the heavenly bodies that has ever presented itself to the human eye. The event was the conjunction of the two planets Saturn and Mars, which made their appearance about midnight when the moon arose.

In discussing the movements and appearance of the two planets last night, Dr. Frank Schiele of the Allegheny Observatory, said: "It is not really a great astronomical event, although it is a very pretty sight." He spent the entire night at the observatory, watching the actions of the two planets and their positions relative to the moon, which was then in its last quarter, and in a position over Saturn and Mars, at a distance of about six times its own apparent diameter. All three were plainly visible to the naked eye, as was the bright morning star, although it was impossible to distinguish any of the occupants or inhabitants of Mars, if there really are any.

The LASH of CIRCUMSTANCE

by HARRY IRVING GREENE
Author of "Yosonde of the Wilderness"
Illustrations by Magnus O. Kettner

"It's queer about that key; I can't find it," she said hastily. "I always carry it in my purse, but when I searched for it a few moments ago on my way over here it was not there. For the life of me I cannot imagine where I could have misplaced it, for I have been very careful to always keep it in that one place. I simply know I have not lost it, but it is just as strange as it can be." She squirmed like a worried schoolgirl.

"Suppose we go back a little. When do you remember having it last?" he pursued. Her forehead wrinkled with thought.

"Three or four days ago when I came over here. I have not had occasion to think of it since until Tom called me up a few moments ago. I am as worried about it as I can be, but I am certain that I have not lost it."

I saw LeDuc's face run over the graceful form of the girl and then settle upon her face with an expression that was beyond doubt one of unequivocal approval. That Clara, whose heart was as open to the world as is the heart of a flower to the light of the sun, could harbor any secret as dark as this was preposterous to one who knew her. I had never met a girl with sounder morals or better instincts, and her character was of spun gold. And even though she loved Bruce and had always defended his frailties, I did not believe that she would have shielded him had she believed him guilty of an unnatural crime as this matter of history.

"I do not understand it either. He was to see me yesterday evening, but he neither came nor sent word as to why he broke the engagement. It is not like him to do such a thing, and while I suppose there is some good reason back of it, I do not know what it is. Anyway, I am worried." She dropped her eyes and tapped gently on the floor with her foot. "I wish you would try and get him on the wire, Tom, and find out if he is all right. That is all I care to know at present."

I assented and started for the telephone, but had made but a step or two before I heard from his familiar ring at the door and a moment later his equally familiar voice from the hall below. Then up the stairs he came and at the first footfall I halted, listening. Usually he mounted something after the fashion of a scurrying cat in a series of light leaps, but now his feet pounded the boards with heavy uncertainty. I opened the door before him, but at the first sight of his face I stopped back.

He advanced to the doorway, faltered there with one hand braced against the jamb and the crimson flushing his face as he saw Clara amongst us. His eyes were as red-shot as a bloodhound's, and the hand that hung by his side was aspen. The unmistakable marks of an evil night.

"Bruce, you had a key to the House yesterday."

were stamped about his mouth and his usually clear face looked puttyish and mottled. I heard Clara gasp as she arose and slowly approached him with unbelieving eyes. He stopped aside as though to avoid her, his glance falling to the floor.

"I have heard about it in the papers all the time," he said with a hoarse intonation. From the bottom of my heart I pitied him as I gently pulled the girl back to her seat and answered him in matter of fact tones.

"There is nothing to tell at present except that the safe was burglarized last night and the $40,000 stolen. I spent the night downtown and found Uncle Abner bound and unconscious when I returned home this morning. He was not much hurt and is all right now. This is Mr. LeDuc, who has been engaged by Uncle Abner to try and ferret out the matter. I think that is the whole thing in a nut shell." He stood as if in a half daze, his gaze rambling over us.

"Any clues?" he mumbled at length. I made no spoken reply, merely bowing in the direction of the detective. And at the signal LeDuc immediately assumed vocal command.

"The only thing we have learned as yet which seems to be of any particular interest is that Miss Winton's key has mysteriously disappeared. All the others have been accounted for and we are anxious to locate hers. She is unable to offer any explanation, and we therefore turn to you as one who frequently in her company in the hope that you may offer a suggestion. Can you offer any thought along that line?"

He shook his head decisively and without hesitation, and I leaned back in my chair with a long breath of astonishment. I had been thoroughly confident that he would at once admit his possession of it and offer some explanation that would immediately satisfy everybody. LeDuc was looking steadily at him, apparently as puzzled by his answer as I was. To all outward appearance there was something hidden beneath the skin here, and I determined to make a quick thrust at the heart of the matter, bleeding him of his secret for his own good.

"Where were you last night, Bruce?" I asked quietly. The pallor of his cheeks took on the unhealthy hue of wax and he stood mute with an unpleasant narrowing of his eyes. For a long minute the silence was unbroken, LeDuc scanning him impatiently and Clara, her pupils expanded, leaning far forward in her intensity. Then he shifted sullenly upon his feet.

"I have no reply to make to that question at present."

I signaled to LeDuc, who instantly caught the cue. "But perhaps if the young lady would pardon us, he has murmured with a courteous bow to Clara. She arose upon the instant, and glancing neither to right nor left, passed into my uncle's apartments, while Bruce gloomed after her with tightened lips moved no muscle. As the door closed behind her I made another effort in his behalf.

"I wish you would be reasonable in this matter, Bruce. You ought to know that you can trust us implicitly when I give you my word as I now do. If you have any reason—any man's reason—to think that your what about last night, if I know to Clara would distress her. Mr. LeDuc and I will blind ourselves upon your honor to keep your communication confidential. Later on you make such explanation to her as you may desire, but in view of certain statements which you made to me it is necessary that our mutual friend here should know where you spent the night. Will you tell us?"

A pale glow of passion, phosphorescent like appeared deep behind his eyes and he answered me doggedly, almost defiantly.

"No, it is a matter which at present concerns only myself. Nor do I understand your insinuations when you say it is for my own good that I make confidants of you. What do you mean by such attempted intimidation?"

Ignoring the gathering storm, I answered him in a calm tone:

"Bruce, I trust you implicitly and tell you now that it would take nothing less than a bombshell of absolute proof to shatter that belief. The belief in the case, which I assure you that I have reason to believe that it is for your own good to do so, I think you might honor me with your confidence. Along that same line I am going to ask you another question. Do you object to showing us the contents of your pockets—everything?" He turned a dull red, seemed about to explode with the heat of his passion, and then growing suddenly cold bowed frigidly and began fumbling before us the contents of his clothing.

"It was the usual miscellaneous assortment of a man's personal belongings, and when he had finished a glance told us that the object for which we were searching was not among them.

"The pockets of your overcoat, please," purred LeDuc. With mocking deliberation Bruce began turning the folds and crevices of that garment inside out. Nothing of interest was exposed to us, and when he had finished we sat eyeing each other with silent lips. I broke the lull.

"Bruce, you had a key to the house yesterday. You pointed upon the table with it as we sat together downtown and then put it back in your side overcoat pocket. I noticed it distinctly. Now Clara's key has disappeared and it is impossible for us to overlook the coincidence. Where did you get the one you had and which you do not now show us? We have a right to know, and for your own good you should tell, bearing in mind that we are all your friends and believe in you beyond telling." His eyes narrowed.

"You mean to say that I had a key to this house yesterday?" he returned with slow distinctness. I bowed.

For a moment he stood looking at me with an expression I had never seen him wear before creeping over his features. Then he turned away abruptly.

"I make no reply beyond saying that you are a very badly mistaken individual. Neither do I understand that you mean by all these intimations, and furthermore I am indifferent. I have nothing more to say. You may both present the devil with my compliments for all I care."

Pausing not at all, he went thumping down the stairs, while I sat staring at the detective, who in turn sat smiling quizzically back at me.

CHAPTER X.

The expression on my companion's face remained unchanged as the sound of my cousin's footsteps was cut off by the bang of the closing door. The family seemed to have grown into his features, so unaltered did it remain, and tiring of its monotony I arose and without apology passed into the next apartment. Clara was sitting beside the bed of Uncle Abner, stroking one of his gorilla-like hands as he rolled his head from side to side with weak whistlings. Most of the lines which now harrowed his face were unfamiliar to me. Heretofore he had always appeared as a fairly well-preserved man of nearly fourscore, but now his face was as wrinkled as one's palm. He shot a sideways glance full of apprehension as I entered, but seeing it was only I resumed his mutterings. Clara's face was unwontedly serious. Her lips were tight fitting and thinned by compression; the laugh had entirely deserted her eyes, and altogether she was the picture of one who suffers uncomplainingly. Of course it took no wizardry to guess the cause of her unhappiness. Bruce, to whom she was engaged, and to whom she therefore must be devoted, had broken his faith with her without explanation or apology; and if that had not been enough in itself, his appearance had been sufficient to shock any one who had pride in him. I knew Clara as I knew the alphabet. There never was a woman more generous, nor one who once having decided to give gave more freely. Therefore, I knew that having bestowed her heart upon Bruce she had done so without stint or reservation. Her nature lay close to the surface, and what might have been a superficial glance at another would but have led to the core of her being. Sympathizing deeply with her I approached her from behind and took her cheeks in my palms. "It is bound to come out all right, Clara," I half whispered.

She freed her face by a slight forward movement and Uncle Abner, closing his eyes wearily, lay for the moment inert on the pillow. They seemed to be ignoring me in their silence, and unable to think of anything to do or say which might relieve the situation, I turned away and left them to themselves. LeDuc had gotten upon his feet in my absence, and had in hand, appeared to be waiting for me to go with him. The whole atmosphere of the place was oppressive to me, and as I led him down the stairs and out into the open I filled my lungs to the uttermost, as a convict might who breathes the pure air of freedom after long confinement in a fabled cell. It was quite a while before either of us saw fit to speak.

"At the end of the block he threw his cigar into the street. 'The police'—you did not tell them about seeing your cousin have the key yesterday?" he said half interrogatively, half assertively. I told him I had not. His next question was, "Why?"

"Because of several reasons. First of all, they did not ask me; second, because I have no idea that Bruce is guilty in this matter; and third, because I did not care, under the circumstances, to put his reputation in their hands. Also, I assume that he would immediately acknowledge his possession of it and give an adequate explanation. You will readily understand that I did not want the newspaper to come out with a sensational story, and I, therefore, reserved that bit of information for my own investigation. You may be sure, however, that I had intended to mention it to him privately when we met again, and only volunteered the information to you because I knew you would work up to it eventually and make it out of me. Furthermore, I know I can rely upon you to suppress details, which although as yet unexplained, in all probability have no real bearing on the issue." His reply came without hesitation.

"Tom, you have known me for years and you know that even as a boy I always played fair. Now, I have no more use for a professional criminal than I have for a mad dog or a venomous serpent. They have shot me, stabbed me and laid in ambush to assassinate me, and I think of them I am imbued with a great and righteous wrath. But when I come across a young fellow of good instincts who has fallen because of a reckless step, I would a whole lot rather give him a boost than a kick. I want you to get me right on that statement."

I signified my comprehension. As he himself said, LeDuc had always been a fair, even a generous, fighter, and his last assertion was wholly in accord with my understanding of the man. Glancing about to make sure that we were safely beyond earshot of any possible listener I broached a matter about which I had been thinking for some little time.

"Billy, there is another thing which the police did not bring out and which I did not volunteer, but which you ought to know. My excuses for not having stated it before are practically the same as those I gave in Bruce's case, namely, because I do not believe it has anything to do with the crime and because I wish to shield a certain individual from annoyance and publicity. Under the same understanding that you are to consider it as a privileged communication I will tell it to you. It is this: There is one more person, at least, who knew that Uncle Abner occasionally had considerable sums of money on hand, and to whom I imparted in a casual conversation the circumstance of this particular amount being in the house. I had a little visit with her yesterday on my way downtown after my quarrel with my uncle. In I told her of Bruce's misfortune. Also, I once left my keys at her house through an oversight and they remained there several days. And while I should bitterly resent even the intimation that she was a conscious party to the crime, it is never-

Theatrical News.

A Scene from "Beverly of Graustark" at the Solson Sat. Mat. and Night.

THE SOISSON.

"Beverly of Graustark." George Ade once remarked that many smart people came from Indiana, and the smarter they were the faster they came. Among the scions of the Hoosier State none has grown further nor faster than George Barr McCutcheon whose "Beverly of Graustark" will be at the Solson theatre, matinee and night, Saturday, August 19. McCutcheon hails from Lafayette where he graduated from Purdue. After leaving college he became a reporter, and soon rose to be managing editor of the Lafayette Journal. One balmy spring day about 10 years ago, as George was toying with the manuscript and shears in his sanctum, it suddenly occurred to him that a great many smart people came from Indiana, and forthwith he seized his trusty typewriter and perpetrated "Graustark." The gay matinee girl went for "Graustark" like a bolt of lightning, and it is up so fast that the publishers had to sprinkle the presses with ice water to keep the bearings from overheating. On observing the commotion his novel had created McCutcheon promptly hurried his pen to the typewriter, and since "Graustark" has turned out at least one "best seller" a year, among them are "Jane Cable," "Brother's Millions," "Beverly" and "Truxton King." Between writing two novels a year and clipping coupons, McCutcheon manages to keep himself fairly busy.

LeDuc brought me to a sudden standstill. "Do you mean Richard Mackay, 'Coughing Dick,' the hoodler and arch conspirator?" he cried, his hand gripping my arm like a trap.

"Yes. You will remember the fact that uncle mentioned the fact that the man who choked him cleared his throat in a peculiar manner."

The grip upon my arm loosened and for a moment my friend stood staring into my face. Then with a soft whistle he drew me on again. It was several moments before he once more broke the silence.

"By all means. It may prove decidedly interesting. My promise goes to this angle of the case as well as all others. Shoo! ahead."

"Then I do not mind telling you that I am in the habit of calling upon a lady who is—well, we will call her an exceedingly good friend of mine. I care a great deal for her, respect her thoroughly and believe she is fond of me. I have incidentally told her about Uncle Abner, and his strange ways, and one evening left my keys in her apartments after having opened a bottle of wine with a corkerewhich I kept attached to my key ring. It was several days later that I called her attention to my oversight and received them back from her. While I trust her implicitly, yet she has a yellow maid who is inscrutable to me and who always seems to be hovering within earshot. To my mind it is not impossible that this maid was in possession of the keys while they were

"I must have lost it," I announced, deeply chagrined. LeDuc looked at me with a question in his eyes.

"And you had it last—when?" were his words. I ran the course of my actions during the past few days through my mind until I recalled the occasion of its last use.

"Last evening. After the theater I gave the friend who was with me one of my cards with the request that he call me up some evening when he was alone. But I have a distinct recollection of putting it back in my upper vest pocket. I would not have lost it for many times its value, and it was a rather expensive trinket at that." Ruefully I continued my search for the fourth or fifth time as he sympathized with me, following his conclusions with the remark that a pencil memorandum in his book would answer the same purpose. Therefore I gave him the number orally and noted that he wrote it down correctly. Then with an apology and an excuse of urgent business he darted aboard a passing car with a farewell flirt of his hand.

Scottdale Loses Pitchers Battle

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 17.—The Scottdale Keystones went down to defeat 6 to 2 before the Morgan team at Louck's park last evening in a grand pitchers' battle between Haberer and Tannehill, each twirling for the opposing team but a couple of blunders. There were but three solid singles in the eight innings contest. Although there were one or two others marked up they were of a scratch variety.

In the opening Tannehill struck out H. Kling and Haley, L. Kling was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. B. Pruy struck out. Haberer walked Darr, L. Elcher died to R. Kling. Kling was hit in the face by a pitched ball, but was not hurt. Elcher ran for him. S. Elcher tapped and Haley forced the ball and Elcher was safe. Stutler hit to left and Darr scored. Ruff tapped and was safe and Elcher came home and the next inn struck out. Palmo died second to first.

Morgan scored their first in the last of the fifth. Robbins expired Tannehill to Elcher. Darr was too sure and muffed H. Haberer's fly. H. Kling lammed the ball for three sacks and Haberer came home, the hit should have been an easy home run but in the confusion the catch held Kling on third. Haley struck out and L. Kling died S. Elcher to L. Elcher.

It was then a tie of war until the first of the eighth. Tannehill hit H. Kling. Tannehill and S. Elcher let Haley's sacrifice fly not away from them. L. Kling fled out to left and H. Kling scored on the out. Pruy struck out. R. Kling hit past second and Haley scored. Krouse walked. A. Haberer tapped safe and R. Kling scored. Krouse came home on a pass ball by Palmo. Robbins tapped safe and Haberer scored. H. Haberer struck out.

Scottdale went out in order in the eighth although the ump called Kling out for stepping on the first base line. Morgan lads claim that Kling was safe and backed their claim up with the recent similar play by Wagner at Cincinnati.

Trauger Defeats Oliphant-Wynn

Hicks No. 2 defeated Oliphant-Wynn at Trauger yesterday in the championship of the Thomas Lynch cup. The score was 21 to 0. Humphrey and Crossland took turns in the box for Oliphant-Wynn but both looked alike to the winners. Crossland held Trauger a shade better than Humphrey, however.

Three hits was the best the visitors could do against Angus. The outting of Lohr and Shilly featured. The score: Hicks No. 2, 21; Oliphant-Wynn, 0. Batteries—Angus and Shilly and Lohr; Humphrey, Crossland and Moon.

Cleric Swelters in Coat of Mail

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The festival of Empiro at the Crystal Palace is over and the Rev. W. H. Abbot of Christ church, Marylebone, is glad of it. A series of historical pageants has been given in connection with the festival and in these pageants, Mr. Abbot has taken the part of Edward, the Black Prince.

It was originally intended that Lord Howard de Walden should be the Black Prince and a suit of armor, exactly like the one the Black Prince wore, was made for him. The suit's weight was something more than 100 pounds. At the last moment a family bereavement prevented Lord Howard from taking the Black Prince's part. Mr. Abbot was chosen in his place because the armor was his size.

Just before the first pageant was given the weather turned extremely warm and it has remained warm almost ever since. It takes two men the better part of an hour to fasten Mr. Abbot's hundred-weight of hardware about his person and four, once it is on, to lift him to the saddle. The first time he wore the Black Prince's clothes he fainted but later he grew accustomed to it. He has never learned to like it, however.

"On a hot day," he says, "the heat in the armor is absolutely unbearable and indescribable. I simply don't all the time. You cannot compare the heat to any other kind of heat. When the King came down to the palace I wore the suit for five blazing hours. How I did it, heaven knows. 'You are perfectly helpless in armor. If you fall down you can never get up again without assistance. In the day when such armor was worn, any number of soldiers must have suffocated when they were knocked or fell down. I know, because at my first performance my horse fell and threw me, armor and all. As a result, I spent the night unconscious at the Norwood Cottage hospital.'

Insult to Prince Grieves the Swiss

United Press Telegram.

BERN, August 17.—Much mortification is felt in Switzerland because so distinguished a man as Prince Kropotkin has been driven from the country by the narrow-mindedness of the authorities of the Canton Ticino, where the Prince recently went for his health. Many years ago, when the now aged and infirm Russian was editing "La Revolt" at Geneva, he was expelled from Switzerland on account of the revolutionary tendencies of the paper.

Opinion concerning him has greatly changed now, however, and taking it for granted that there would be no further objection to his presence, he went to Locarno, in the Canton Ticino, on his doctor's advice. Discovering that he was there, the Canton authorities notified the government, whereupon the Prince left the country to avoid a second expulsion. In government circles it is stated that he would readily have been granted permission to remain, had he been for it. Modern anarchists consider the Prince socialistic rather than anarchistic in his views.

Samuel Compers Tours the West

Special to The Courier.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—Samuel Compers, President of the American Federation of Labor, left today on a tour of the West and Northwest that will last about two months and extend over a number of States. He will visit many of the large cities and incidentally will consult with the leaders of organized labor in regard to the defense fund and other plans to aid the men who are soon to be put on trial in Los Angeles for the alleged dynamiting of the Times building in that city.

Mr. Compers' first stopping place will be Denver, after which he is to visit Salt Lake City, Butte, Spokane, Seattle, Vancouver, Tacoma and Portland. Labor Day will find him in San Francisco, where he will deliver the address before the organized labor bodies of that city and vicinity. A number of other California cities will be visited before he returns East.

NEW GAME PRESERVE.

Large Tract in Westmoreland and Somerset Counties to be Stocked.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—(Special.) The State forestry commissioners will be asked at their next meeting to set aside about 3,000 acres of the Stuart forestry reserve in Westmoreland and Somerset counties for the use of the State Game Commission as a game preserve. This project, which has been urged by State Game Commissioner John M. Phillips of Pittsburgh, will give Western Pennsylvania a preserve which will be closed at all seasons and where game may go to rest and propagate. Secretary Joseph Kauffman will surround the preserve with wire and notices and will arrange to stock it with deer during the coming winter. This will be done at the same time as the stocking of the Toboyne game preserve.

Veteran Sea Dog is Retired Today

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.—Rear Admiral Souton Schrock, a conspicuous figure in the navy, was placed on the retired list today on account of age. His naval career began in 1868, in which year he graduated from Annapolis and was assigned to duty with the Pacific fleet. During the ensuing 30 years he served on sea and land in many parts of the world.

In the war with Spain he served on the battleship Massachusetts. His first command was the battleship Louisiana. During the memorable voyage of the Atlantic fleet around the world he was in command of the Virginia. His last active duty was as president of the Naval War College.

Beyond receiving the customary congratulations he will make no special observance of the anniversary, but will pass the day in quiet at Ischl, where he has resided the most of the time since his recent illness. His subjects throughout the dual empire, however, will celebrate the day as usual with national rejoicings.
